New Series: Sent with Bishop Bill Wack

We invite you to Join Bishop William Wack of the Diocese of Pensacola-Tallahassee in a new five part series, SENT. In an easy to grasp and truly inspiring way, Bishop Bill delves into the importance of not only being a disciple of Jesus Christ, but sharing His good news as an apostle.

As he explains, from the earliest days of the Church, we have each been called first to grow in our faith as disciples and then to go forth as apostles to teach our family and neighbors the Good News we learned. More importantly, Bishop Bill explains that we are called not simply to teach and share our Catholic Faith, but to truly live our faith in tangible ways in our own community and the world at large.

SENT is one of several new productions coming out of our new studio. Keep an eye out on our social platforms for more new productions in the future. Until then, please Join Bishop Bill to see just how we are SENT as apostles of Christ. You can view the series at: SaintDominicMedia.com/Sent

New Series: World So Loved with Father Dustin Feddon

World So Loved is a video podcast series that explores the mysteries of life and the universe through the lens of wonder. The podcast is hosted by Father Dustin Feddon who has a doctorate in Religion and is a priest in the Diocese of Pensacola-Tallahassee. Father Dustin presents each episode of World So Loved in a way that allows viewers to enter into contemplation, opening them to the depths of meaning in their lives.

The episodes are broken up into series, each of which explores a different facet of the human condition. For instance, in series one the podcast covers both ancient and modern philosophies, as well as major scientific discoveries such as the Big Bang and the Copernican Revolution. During this first series listeners are drawn deeper into the mystery of the creator of the universe, of the majesty of God Himself.

In the second series, Father Dustin looks into one of the most difficult of human conditions, suffering, to show that through the lens of God, even suffering can make sense and draw us into a deeper relationship with our Creator. Father Dustin shows us that far from being left to fend for ourselves, God gave us a World so Loved.

Although this podcast is relatively new, it has gained quite a lot of attraction and has become a regular part of our lineup here at Saint Dominic Media.

New episodes are released weekly. You can view them at: SaintDominicMedia.com/WorldSoLoved.
